

The TRCG Advantage

Differentiating From the Competition

In order to deliver a best-in-class service for the R&D Credit, TRCG has structured its R&D Credit Service to meet all of the challenges commonly experienced by companies attempting to capture the Credit. Our R&D Credit Services Team is comprised of some of the leading experts in the field of R&D incentives, having successfully executed over 1,000 unique tax incentives engagements.

Straight Forward and Honest Approach

Business owners deserve an honest and objective assessment of whether or not their activities meet the qualification criteria. For every prospective client opportunity, TRCG conducts a complete initial analysis of the prospective R&D Credit benefit. Our consultants promise to:

- Invest the necessary time and resources on the front-end with its prospective clients to identify qualified expenses and accurately and clearly estimate the R&D benefit.
- Work with a prospective client's tax preparers to clearly understand how the benefit will be utilized.
- Provide prospective clients with a detailed and customized Project Work Plan during the engagement process. The Work Plan allows clients to understand the exact steps necessary to complete the study, as well as the projected time frame for completion.

Superior Project Execution

Our projects are executed by seasoned tax professionals who possess extensive experience within the core industries for the R&D Credit – manufacturing, life sciences, and software development. TRCG prides itself not only on technical expertise, but on our commitment to ensuring that our clients receive excellent service each and every time they interact with our firm. TRCG emphasizes the trade craft of consulting – timely and accurately communicating with clients, managing project deadlines, following up and following through.

Exceeding Client Expectations

TRCG Professionals strive to become trusted advisors for their clients, always exceeding expectations by providing a little something extra. Whether this means visiting client's offices whenever we are in the area, passing along news of the latest industry trends, or offering assistance to our clients' CPAs, TRCG wants to always exceed expectations!
